First confirmed case of 'swine flu' in Yolo County

Yolo County Health Officer Dr. Joseph Iser today urged all local residents to continue to take common sense steps to protect themselves from H1N1 flu following confirmation that a Yolo County resident has tested positive with the disease. The individual is an adult who lives in Davis, and is now recovered. Health Department staff are continuing to investigate the details of the case. No other probable cases in Yolo County have been identified at this time. Although cases identified in the United States to date have been mostly mild, public health officials continue to monitor for more serious illnesses, and recommend that people take basic hygiene precautions to stop the spread of disease.

About a dozen people have died from the "swine flu" nationawide.

"It is critically important for everyone to protect themselves and their families by practicing good hand and respiratory hygiene," said Dr. Iser. "This includes frequent hand washing, regular use of hand sanitizers, and covering coughs and sneezes with tissues. In addition, you should stay home when you are sick."

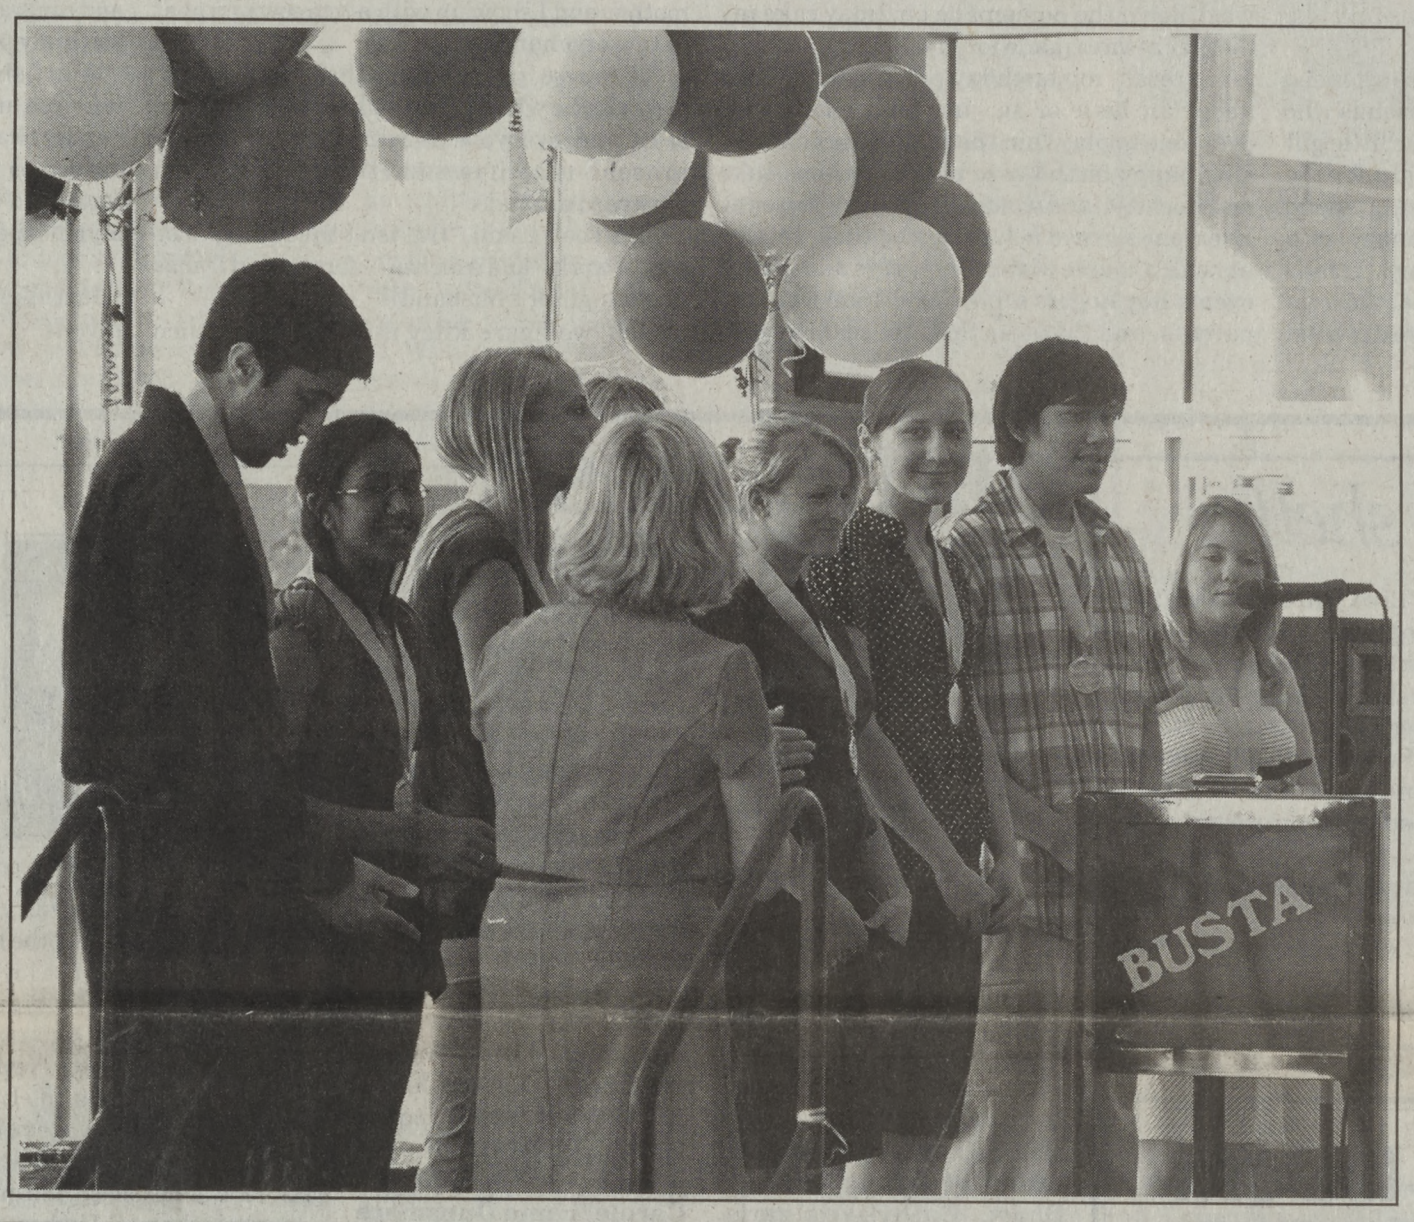
The symptoms of H1N1 flu in humans are similar to the symptoms of regular human flu and include fever, cough, sore throat, body aches, headache, chills and fatigue. Some people have also reported diarrhea and vomiting associated with H1N1 flu.

Flu is generally spread by direct contact with germs from an infected person, from either uncovered coughs or sneezes or by touching something the infected person has handled. People experiencing flu-like symptoms should call their health care provider for advice on whether to stay home or seek professional care.

Nationwide, influenza like illness is trending downward. However, it is possible that localized outbreaks may continue to occur over the summer. "The real uncertainty is how this novel virus will affect our flu season starting this fall," adds Dr. Iser. "Our department will be monitoring the status of the virus as we prepare for the seasonal flu."

For more information about H1N1 influenza, go to: www.cdc.gov/h1n1flu, call the CDC hot line at 1-800-232-4636, or call the California state warm line at 1-888-865-0564 Monday-Friday 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Honored for exceptional achievement



River City High School held its annual 'awards night' last Wednesday.

The occasion was a chance to recognize graduating seniors who had accomplished exceptional achievement.

Among those honored were the school's valedictorians (left, pictured with vice principal Sandi Reese, whose back is to the camera).

This Saturday is the big day for the RCHS Class of 2009. Members of the school board and other officials will celebrate their passage with a campus graduation ceremony.

Lack of interest dooms 2009 'grad night' plan for RCHS seniors

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

John Jordan had used volunteers and other creative and frugal tricks to codge together a "grad night" party worth around $10,000, and made it available to River City High School seniors this Saturday for $25 per person. Then he offered the tickets for free to anyone who had trouble paying for one.

But the "grad night" party died last week for lack of interest. Only six people had bought tickets, and Jordan, director of the Collings West Sacramento Teen Center on Merkley Avenue, reluctantly pulled the plug. There will be no all-night "safe, sober and sensational" party for RCHS grads this year.

The West Sacramento party was one of a number of "grad night" events in the Sacramento region that simply failed this year – for economic reasons, lack of interest, or whatever other reason.

"The tragic thing is, we had a great party planned," Jordan told the News-Ledger. "We had a mechanical bull, Monte Carlo games – a poker table and blackjack tables, a basketball tournament, a DJ, a gigantic slide, mountains of food, and two $500 cash prizes to give away at the end of the night, as well as a laptop computer, a Wii gaming system and some very special games. It's just a shame."

Jordan is the only full-time staff at the teen center, which is supported chiefly by donations and grants. The center offers high school-age teens a place to hang out after school – and play pool or ping-pong, watch videos or play basketball. The "grad night" event is one of a number of special events the teen center has provided before.

BELOW: Barring a reprieve, the front door to the teen center will close for most of the summer, reopening in the fall.

"Last year, we had around 75 or 80 kids for the same kind of deal," said Jordan.

But this year, the school's senior class officers were "lethargic" about pushing the event, he added.

The center's part-time communications director, Don Bosley, tried hard to get the school's senior class leaders fired up about getting their classmates to do their post-graduation partying at the teen center.

"We just didn't get any response," said Jordan. "The only difference from previous years is that we had more buy-in early, and the senior class championed it on a greater scale."

The teen center advertised the party as a "safe" alternative to what some young grads to the night after they get their diplomas: drink a lot and spend time on the roads.

It also hurt the party, said Jordan, that the high school is planning this year to hold its graduation ceremonies on a Saturday (this Saturday). More students would choose the teen center's party if graduation and the all-night party happened instead on a Friday, he argued.

When graduation is held on a Saturday, he said:

"The kids go out on Friday, and they're exhausted, and then they know they will have family in town for graduation on Saturday, so it's a tougher gig," said Jordan.

It's a particularly tough year for the teen center in 2009, with an evaporating economic base of support. Like last year, the center plans to close down for the summer next week – just as high school kids get out of school.

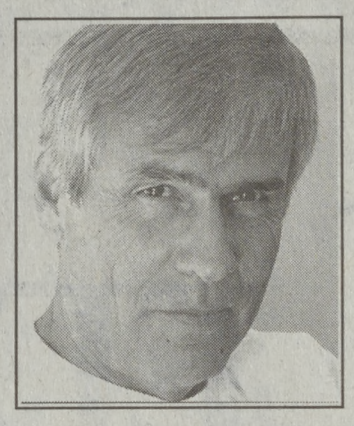
"I operated this budget year for under $200,000," said Jordan. "I'm the head cook and bottle washer. Just to run the air conditioning this summer, the utility bills will be $5,000 a month."

Unless some kind of angel comes along with a sum of money to keep operations going through the summer, there will only be a few special events between now and September.

Jordan and his communications director, Don Bosley, said that 780 different people used the teen center for drop-in visits this school year. The center also served 14,000 free lunches, supervised sports tournaments, hosted weekly tutoring sessions and provided services to kids from underprivileged families.

Birthday parties just aren't the same anymore—

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

My oldest grandson, Riley Dagen Stone, recently turned four years old, and his birthday party was held this past weekend at my daughter's home, which is only a few blocks from mine. A regular old birthday party, however, it definitely was not! But first a little history.

Way back in the olden days when I was happily growing up on Michigan Boulevard in West Sacramento, throwing a birthday party seemed like it was a pretty simple task. Come early August of every year, my beloved mother would scribble out a few invitations and then have me hand-deliver them to some of my friends and schoolmates. Her goal, as I remember it, was to keep my birthday parties relatively small, while I on the other hand of course wanted to invite every kid in my neighborhood, the goal being to get as many presents as humanly possible. My mother, however, always won out, stating that she and my father didn't have enough money to throw me a really big birthday party and that our garage (where most of my birthday parties were held) was much too small to be overflowing with dozens of little kids running around like a pack of wild animals.

So most of my birthday parties were attended by just five or six of my very best friends who would each bring me an inexpensive little gift (my mother didn't think it was right for the parents of any of my friends to have to spend too much of their hard-earned money on a birthday gift for me). And as my friends arrived, I would eagerly meet them at the front door, quickly snatch the nicely wrapped present they had brought me out of their hands, and race off to the garage to stack it up with all the others on a little table that was also home to a big container of cherry Kool-Aid that was going to be used a little later to help everyone wash down the homemade birthday cake my mother always made for me.

As I recall, my birthday parties only lasted about an hour or so, just long enough for everyone to play "pin the tail on the donkey", sing happy birthday to me, have some cake and Kool-Aid, and watch me open my presents. Everyone seemed to have a good time, I ended up with a couple of shiny new toys and maybe even a Roy Rogers school lunch pail from my parents, and that was that. No real expense or stress for anyone. Oh, how times have changed!

"I'm going to have a theme birthday party for Riley this year," my daughter informed me almost a month ago.

"A theme birthday party?" I asked with interest. "What in the world is that?"

"Everyone is doing theme birthday parties, Dad. What world do you live in?"

"Sorry," I said, seemingly always apologizing to one or more of my kids for being so out of touch with life's reality loop.

"You know how much Riley loves animals, right?" asked my daughter.

"Yes. In fact, he's always been just like you, in love with all creatures great and small."

"Well, I've decided to throw him a barnyard animal birthday party this year! Now is that going to be fun for him or what?"

"A barnyard animal birthday party?"

"That's right."

"Now," I said slowly, not wanting to seem even more out-of-touch than I normally am, "just what does a barnyard animal birthday party consist of? For instance, should your mother and I show up with a live cow or a goat in tow or what?"

"Of course not! It's just that I'm going to decorate the whole house with barnyard animal stuff and everyone is supposed to bring a present that has something to do with barnyard animals."

"Oh, I see," I said. "But isn't that going to be a lot of work – and expense — for you and Dallas (my daughter's husband)?"

"Well, we figure Riley is only going to turn four once, and this is going to be his first really big birthday party. Oh, and the real reason I called you is that on the day of the party, we need you to take Zoey (my daughter's crazy dog) over to your house so she won't tear up all the backyard decorations and knock down all of Riley's little friends – not to mention that we don't want anyone at the party stepping in doggie doo-doo."

"Hey, I don't want that crazy dog – or her doo-doo — in my backyard, either!"

Anyway, to make a long story short, my daughter and her husband slaved away for days cleaning and decorating their house (inside and out) and gave Riley a birthday party I'm sure he will always remember. There was a colorful piñata hanging from a tree in the front yard, a giant pig balloon in the front room, a new slide and sandbox in the backyard for all of Riley's little guests to use, a great barbeque lunch for all the adults in attendance, and more presents for Riley than my little table in my parent's garage could have ever possibly held. And after three or four hours when it was finally all over, I went over to my daughter and congratulated her on throwing such a great birthday party for her son.

"Well," she said with exhausted eyes, "that's it for me and Dallas. No more theme birthday parties for any of our kids – we just about killed ourselves trying to do this one. Believe me, next time we're going to keep it small, simple, and inexpensive!"

Just like in the good ole days, I thought to myself.

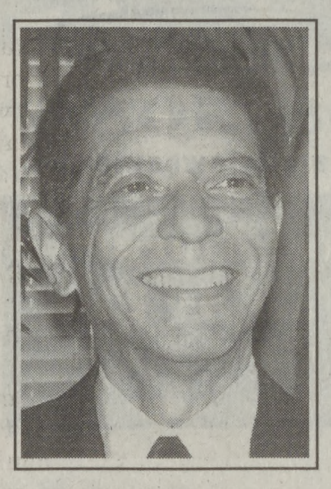
SPORTS INSIDER



By Richard Novoa

The NBA Championship best-of-seven series tips off on Thursday, June 5th from the Staple Center in Los Angeles, California with Kobe Bryant and his band of Lakers hosting Super Man Dwight Howard and the Magic show of Orlando.

The Orlando Magic will return to the NBA finals after a fourteen year absence. The Magic stunned King James and his cheerleading Cavalier bench in six games to win the Eastern Conference title for the first time since 1995, one year before Shaq took off for Los Angeles.

The Magic proved to the Cavs that having the best player in the NBA isn't enough to carry a team into the finals. A supporting cast is a must so there won't be a Kobe-LeBron showdown in the NBA finals. The Cavs had the NBA's best record but lost both regular-season meetings with the Lakers. The Magic beat L.A. twice this year!

The Magic show will include the supporting cast of the assassin Hedo Turkoglu and the cool and calm play of Rashard Lewis. Orlando may bring back their injured point guard Jameer Nelson for the playoff but sub Rafer Alston, nicknamed "Skip To My Lou", has filled in nicely and is the key to the Magic playoff success. Also, Courtney Lee has been playing well off the bench but the big surprise has been Mickael Pietrus averaging 10.5 points in the playoffs sinking 33 three-pointers in 84 attempts.

After defeating the Philadelphia 76ers in six games, it took Orlando seven to defeat the defending champion Celtics and six to bury Cleveland, winning twice on the road in both Philly and Boston before earning the Eastern Conference trophy.

The Lakers road to the NBA Finals included 65 regular season wins, three playoff series victories over the Utah Jazz, Houston Rockets and Denver Nuggets, and now the trophy has come into Kobe's radar.

The Lakers clinched their 30th Finals appearance, most in NBA history, and own 15 Championships Trophies, second behind Boston, who have won 17 titles. The Lakers won three consecutive titles from 2000 to 2002, but haven't won another since they traded Shaq to Miami in 2004.

OK, enough talk, it's time to sit back and enjoy another great NBA championship match up. The League has enjoyed their best TV ratings in years and its East vs. West, and Superman vs. Kobe Bryant's Kryptonite.

The Lakers and Kobe will hard to stop especially with his supporting cast of three big men - Andrey Bynum, Pau Gasol and Lamar Odom. This fact alone should make the Lakers the odds on favorite to win the Larry Bird Trophy but I really like the Magic Orlando's players brings to the court so I'm taking Orlando to upset the Lakers in seven games!

Diamond Notes

The Giants (25-24) are starting to give their fans some hope for this season by playing better than average baseball but their offensive bats are is still on the critical list. The G-Men still need a power hitter to clean-up their nickel and dime offense so don't be surprised to see the Giants trade one of their starting pitchers.

The Giants have no power in their line-up and their team batting average of .259 with only 26 home runs with 181 RBI's. The Washington Nationals (13-36) are the worst team in the league and have hit 57 HR's and knocked in 232 runs but of course their pitching stinks.

The Oakland A's (19-30), who are stuck in last place in the AL West, have made 35 roster moves to their River Cats roster in the last two months. Oakland signed Nomar Garciaparra, Jason Giambi and a couple of older guys to provide the line with some pop but it's back fired on them creating a log jam on the disabled list.

The A's were 8-11 in April and followed with an 11-18 May to record their first two losing months to start the season since 1998. The A's pitchers are been getting hammered lately and have an ERA of 4.57 which still better than six other teams including the Yankees but the A's offensive is dead last in the A.L. with a team batting average of .239 with only 38 home runs.

Anyway, if you're going to lose, you might as well develop your minor league talent in the process. The A's are playing this week in Chicago returning on Friday night to Oakland to host the Baltimore Orioles, while the Giants travel east to play in Washington D.C. and Florida.

River Cats

The Oakland A's are losing and are having roster problems but Los Gatos continue to win and are currently leading the South Pacific Division by four games over Fresno. The A's raided the Cats roster again by calling up right-handed starter Vince Mazzaro and are planning to pitch him in Chicago.

Mazzaro, who earned back-to-back PCL pitcher of the week honors, has worked 27 innings allowing nine hits, and one earned run, walked four and struck out 21 batters. The 22 year-old has been a huge part of the Cats current success. The Cats have won 17 of their last 21 games and are leading the PCL in attendance averaging about 8,850 fans through 29 games.

This Sunday the River Cats will host the first of two "Bark in the Park" days at Raley Field. Fans can bring their dog with their ID's and on a leash to the ball game. You enter the right-field gate beginning at 11:30 and water and treats will be provided. Don't miss the pregame dog parade and a costume contest is also planned for your pooch. A portion of each $15 dog ticket will benefit the SPCA. Looks like my two boxer dogs, Aztec and Kahili, will be treated to a Saturday night herbal shampoo and fresh nail trim to prepare my canines for their first professional baseball game.

Enjoy your day – see ya next week!

In the first round of league playoffs the Rivercity Gators semi-pro football team beat the visiting Marin Bulldogs 31 to 12 on May 30 at River City High School. The Gators faced a much more determined Bulldog squad since their last meeting, when the Gators pummeled them 51-6.

Saturday saw a hard-hitting defensive struggle for most of the first quarter. Both teams scored late in the second quarter. The Gators scored first on long drive and stayed on top for the rest of the game. Even when the Bulldogs scored with less than a minute in the half, the Gators' special teams blocked the extra-point attempt and stifled any momentum the Bulldogs had. The Gators went on to dominate the second half.

The Gators' next game is June 6 at Elsie Allen High School in Santa Rosa against the #1-ranked North Bay Rattlers. Tickets are $10 ($7 for seniors; children under 14 free).

Escalon ends winning season of RCHS tennis squad

It was the highest of highs followed by the lowest of lows for the River City High School Tennis Team in the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III team playoffs last week. After an amazing come-from-behind 4 to 3 win at Placer in the quarterfinals, the Raiders were defeated 5 to 2 in the semifinals by the eventual Section champs from Escalon, 5 to 2.

Up in Auburn against Placer, the two-time defending Section titleholders, RC fell behind 3 to 1, with the lone win a 3-6,6-4,6-3 mixed doubles victory from Phi Dinh and Sarah Aguilar. In the remaining three contests, Lydia Maystruk was in a marathon two-set struggle in girls singles and both girls doubles matches went into deciding third sets.

The visitors deficit was cut to 3-2 when Monica Anaya and Lai Saetern won their #2 girls doubles match 6-3,3-6, 6-1 and Maystruk evened things up at 3-all with her 6-4,7-6(4) win in singles. Less than five minutes later, Ranika Prasad and Tuyet Hoang gave the Raiders the match with their 3-6,7-5,6-3 victory in #1 girls doubles. For Placer, the first place team from the Pioneer Valley League, it was the team's first loss in over three years. "One of the biggest wins in RC tennis history, for sure, knocking off the 2007 and 2008 Section champs on their own courts," said Raider Tennis Coach Dave Brooks.

Against Escalon in the semis:

Marisa Arellano fell in three sets in the girls singles match, as did the #1 girls doubles pair of Prasad and Aguilar, and Phi Dinh and Jim Saetern dropped the #1 boys doubles match 5-7,5-7. The Raider wins came from Trevor Langford and Rudy Maltez who took the #2 boys doubles match 6-1,7-5, and Anaya teamed up with Hoang for a 6-2,7-6(3) victory in #2 girls doubles.

"A tough way to end a great season," offered Brooks. "We finished 16 and 0 in the Capital Valley Conference and 23 and 2 overall, with both losses to Escalon, the Section champion."

Convicted rapist denied new trial; receives 8-year sentence

Yolo County District Attorney Jeff Reisig announced that on Thursday, Yolo County Superior Court Judge David Rosenberg sentenced 26 year old Robert Mistler, Jr., of West Sacramento to eight years in state prison for rape and first degree burglary. Mistler had been on probation for prior convictions of domestic violence and battery on a police officer.

On October 2, 2004, at 4:30 a.m., Mistler went to the victim's home in West Sacramento. He entered her bedroom and raped her while she was asleep. On May 23, 2008, the jury convicted Mistler of Rape and 1st Degree Burglary.

More than a year passed before Mistler was sentenced due to delays caused by the defendant's vigorous efforts to get a new trial. After reviewing hundreds of pages of motions from the defendant and responses from the prosecution, Judge Rosenberg denied Mistler's New Trial Motion and sentenced him to prison stating, "The victim was particularly vulnerable—she was at home, in her own bed, and asleep and unconscious. At some point it must end, and that day is today."

With a courtroom packed with family members of both the victim and defendant, the victim read a 3 page statement to the court while quietly sobbing. She said, "My life has changed significantly due to his actions. I have fears about my safety, things that never crossed my mind before. I was raped while sleeping in my own bed. I need the trial to end. I need it to end today."

Yolo County Assistant Chief Deputy District Attorney Jonathan Raven prosecuted the case. Raven stated, "This was a tortured process. The victim was raped by the defendant and then victimized again by the system. However, in the end, justice prevailed. She can now start what will prove to be a lifelong journey to self-healing."

Measure K Report

from the City of West Sacramento ■ March 31, 2009

Measures J & K

In November 2002, West Sacramento voters approved two measures that established a sales tax override of ½% (or ½ cent on every taxable sales dollar) that was intended to supplement the city's general fund for general government purposes. Measure J was an advisory measure that described the City Council's conceptual plan on how the money should be spent, and Measure K was the measure that actually implemented the sales tax override. The initial amount generated from the ½% override was estimated to be $5 million annually.

What Measure J Asked

If Measure K is approved, should the proceeds fund the repair and maintenance of city streets, new parks and community facilities, library services, after-school programs, childcare and senior facilities, expanded police and fire protection, and reductions in utility bills and property tax assessments?

How Measure K Works

Measure K specified that the ½% override would consist of ¼% that would cease after 10 years and ¼% that would continue indefinitely. The funds generated by the override have been divided into two categories: a base allocation and a capital allocation. The base allocation is funded with the ongoing ¼%, and the capital allocation is funded with the ¼% that will cease after ten years. The base allocation is to be used for ongoing programs and activities; the capital allocation is to be used for specific projects. In the case of capital allocation, bonding and borrowing against the projected annual cash flow has enabled a larger amount of funding to be available at the onset of the ten-year period. One of the purposes of Measure K funding was to attract and leverage other funding sources such as developer commitments, federal and state grants. Toward this end, we have been successful in attracting about $15 million other funds, or about 44% the Measure K funds of $33.5 million.

Measures U & V

On November 4, 2008, West Sacramento voters approved two measures; Measure U and Measure V. Measure U approved the continuation of a ¼ cent portion of an existing ½ cent sales tax for an additional 20 years. Measure V approved the use of ¼ cent of sales tax proceeds to fund the operations of a streetcar system and fund flood protection improvements. The two measures approved are critical to the safety and prosperity to the region.

This Report

Measure K also included the requirement that "the citizens shall receive annually a published report of revenues and disbursements following a public hearing." A public hearing for that purpose is held each year by June 30.

This report shows that these Allocations are consistent with Measure J.

Overview

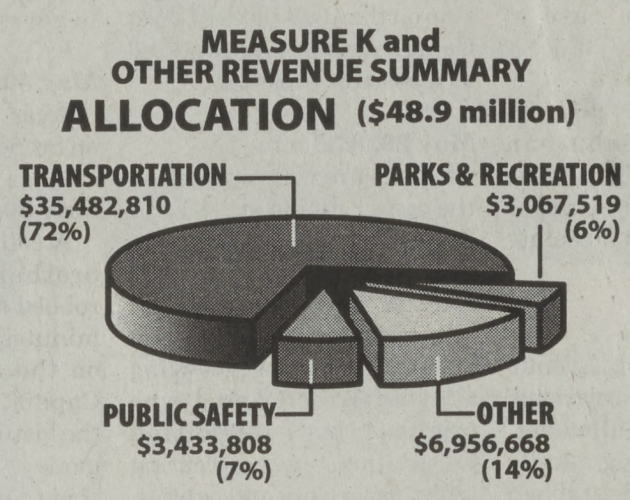
In the information presented below, Allocation refers to the distribution of Measure K funds in accordance with Measure J, along with revenues from other sources, while Actual refers to actual disbursement of those funds.

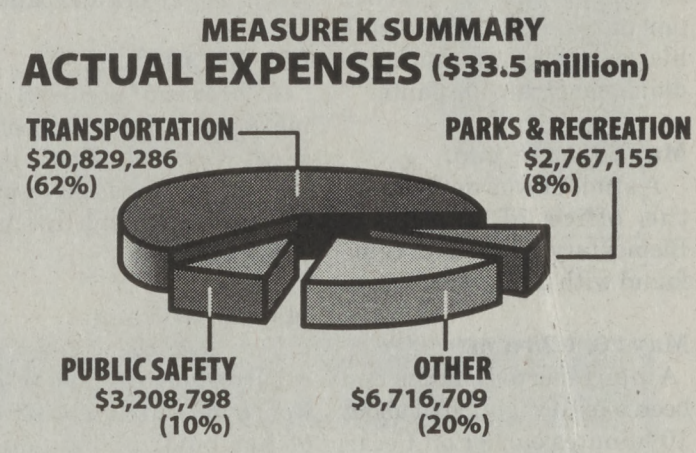
As the graph for Allocations below shows, Public Safety receives 7% of the revenue for programs, including additional police and fire personnel, new equipment and facility repairs.

Transportation programs, receiving 72% of the revenue, include expanded street sweeping and minor street maintenance. Major projects in this category include sidewalk repair, traffic safety upgrades, bike lane striping and an accelerated program for resurfacing of many residential streets.

Parks and Recreation, with 6% of the revenue, offers expanded after-school and childcare programs, and provides for certain facilities at various community sites, including restrooms, playgrounds and irrigation improvements in parks, skate park, and fishing dock improvements.

Finally, the Other category, accumulating miscellaneous programs and projects, receives the remaining 14% of the revenue. In this category are funds for: the water service charge reduction; purchase of property for the expanded Turner Library; transit center; and seed money for a new community center.





REVENUES AND DISBURSEMENTS THROUGH THE PERIOD ENDING MARCH 31, 2009

		Allocation		Actual Expense
		Measure K	Other Revenues
REVENUES
Measure K Sales Tax and Other Revenues	$36,773,070
EXPENDITURES
PUBLIC SAFETY
Base
Investigations - Personnel Costs, Safety Equipment, Vehicles & Equipment		1,578,813	–	1,485,976
Allocation - Expands police and code enforcement resources dedicated to the West Capitol Avenue corridor. Funds will be spent on specialized training, supplies and equipment.
Actual Expense - Measure K moneys allotted to the Police Department were used to fund two police officer positions, a code enforcement officer and a vehicle. These positions became the West Capitol Avenue Impact Team. The team worked under a community policing philosophy, using partnerships with public and private entities to solve identified community issues and priorities.
Their efforts yielded substantial results as measured by the decrease in police calls for service in the primary focus area of West Capitol Avenue. Police calls for disorderly conduct and calls for fights fell by 29%. Measuring the combined statistics on calls for trespassing, theft, suspicious circumstances, fights, and disorderly conduct, the Police Department saw a decrease of 26% in calls for service.
In January 2007, the police officer positions previously allocated to the West Capitol Avenue Impact Team were incorporated into the newly formed Community Response Team (CRT). The Community Response Team is comprised of one police sergeant and four police officers. The formation of the Community Response Team allows the ability to employ some of the same concepts used by the West Capitol Avenue Impact Team in the City of West Sacramento as a whole. The CRT works closely with Code Enforcement to address both the short-term and long- term issues.
The CRT mission will be achieved through a cooperative effort with the community and other law and non-law enforcement agencies. Some of the objectives include the West Capitol Avenue Corridor, crime suppression, gang suppression, prostitution abatement, street level narcotics (hand-to-hand neighborhood issues), illegal camping, Problem Oriented Policing (POP) projects, issues which require resources beyond the capabilities of normal department response and community wellness issues.
Through the foundation efforts of the West Capitol Avenue Impact Team and the continued focus on the West Capitol Avenue Corridor by the Community Response Team and the West Sacramento Police Department as a whole, calls for service and criminal activity along the West Capitol Avenue Corridor continue to decrease. In comparing the disorderly conduct and fight related calls for service on West Capitol Avenue in the 2005/2006 year to the 2007/2008 year, there was a 21% decrease in calls for service and more specifically a 28% decrease in disorderly conduct calls for service.

After-School Childcare Program		1,154,940	–	1,092,673
Allocation/Actual Expense - Funding to expand various existing community service programs, as follows:
Kid Zone (formerly The After School Adventure - TAA)
• A program that provides after-school childcare at local elementary school sites from school dismissal until 6:00 p.m. • This service allows parents who work weekdays to enroll their child/children in a supervised program. • The program provides time for homework, as well as organized play, games, arts and crafts, sports activities, and a healthy snack. • The City has partnered with the Washington Unified School District (W.U.S.D.) to increase the amount of school sites and the amount of student spaces for after-school care. W.U.S.D. has secured A.S.E.S. (After School Education and Safety) grant funding that is being used toward this collaboration.
Program Augmentation
• Measure K has provided funding for expansion of the Kid Zone After-School Program that serves elementary children at local elementary schools Monday - Friday, school dismissal to 6:00 p.m. Each month, 400+ children have benefited from this Measure K program. • Kid Zone offers after-school services each day school is in session. Measure K funding made it possible to offer Kid Zone every week of the month, every month of the year. Every day that school is in session, KidZone is in session at Alyce Norman, Bryte, Elkhorn, Stonegate, Westfield, and Westmore Oaks Elementary. • Funding assisted the program by providing daily nutritious snack, program materials, arts and crafts supplies, sports equipment, books, staff labor, staff uniforms, staff training and certifications, program trips and special events, buses, flyers and monthly parent calendars, etc.
Program Expansion
• Funding allowed the Kid Zone program to open at Evergreen and Alyce Norman/Bryte. The latter is held at Alyce Norman School, but serves both Alyce Norman and Bryte students, and is a collaboration between our program and the principals of the two schools.
Scholarships
• Measure K funds scholarships to children attending all of the five Kid Zone sites: Alyce Norman/Bryte, Elkhorn, Evergreen, Westfield and Westmore Oaks. Currently the program only costs a $2.00 per day, and scholarships provide the opportunity for children to attend the program absolutely free. Next year the program will be free to all participants, as the city and school district are collaborating in the ASES (After School Education Safety) grant through the state Department of Education. The grant requires a 33% match, which Measure K KID Zone funds will help provide.
K.I.D.S. (Kids Involved During Summer)
• A summer neighborhood recreation day-camp for children, ages 5 to 12. • This service allows parents who work weekdays to enroll their child/children in a supervised program. • The program provides organized play, games, arts and crafts, field trips, sports activities, and a healthy snack.
Program Augmentation
• Measure K has provided funding for expansion of K.I.D.S. Summer Camp. A seven-week camp offered during summer vacation at local parks and elementary school sites (seven sites total) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Last summer over 360 children benefited from this Measure K funded program. • Funding has allowed us to increase program supplies, activities, and special events offered at the K.I.D.S. camp sites. It has allowed us to tape the annual K.I.D.S talent show and broadcast it on our local access cable. Some of the fun new activities offered include a bowling trip, Someplace Fun, and roller skating.
Program Expansion
• Funding has allowed us to add new sites at Southport Gateway Park and Bridgeway Island Park. The latter has been highly successful, and is one of the two highest attended sites. Attendance reaches 90 children on some days. As with existing K.I.D.S. camp sites, funding provides program materials, arts and crafts, sports equipment, food and refreshments for the children, staff labor, staff uniforms, staff training and certifications, program trips and special events, buses, flyers and parent calendars, banners, water toys to stay cool in the summer, and participant shirts. Scholarships funding has allowed children to attend the program for free if they meet income eligibility guidelines established by the National School Fund Program.
Teen Camp
• A program that provides middle school students a summer of fun recreational activities at the Club West Teen Center for six weeks. The program operates Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. • This service allows parents who work weekdays to enroll their middle-school-age child/children in a supervised program. • The program provides organized play, games, arts and crafts, sports activities, trips, and healthy snacks and lunch.
Program Implementation
Measure K funding has enabled the Parks & Recreation Department to develop this new program for up to 40 students in middle school (grades 7 and 8). Teens participate in exciting activities and trips. These activities include: bowling, swimming, Marine World, Golf Land Sunsplash, and a Monarchs game. As part of the registration fee, lunch is provided daily. Funding provides program materials, arts and crafts supplies, sports equipment, staff labor, staff uniforms, staff training and certifications, program trips and special events, buses, flyers and parent calendars, and participant shirts.

Numbers, shapes, colors, and the alphabet as well as opportunities for emotional, social, physical, cognitive and creative growth are offered to all participants in the program. Field trips, educational fun visitors, and special projects and opportunities are conducted throughout the year.

Program Augmentation

Measure K has provided funding for expansion of the Discovery Preschool Tiny Tots and Kinder Kids Program. Capacity has been increased and more children are able to benefit from this school readiness program.

Funding has allowed us to increase program curriculum, books and supplies. Funding has also allowed us to offer the program more days of the year, and increase program staff.

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Gran Torino" — "Gran Torino" is not only one of Clint Eastwood's best movies (he starred and served as its director), but it is also one of the best films of 2008.

Eastwood plays Walt Kowalski, a grizzled, cantankerous Korean War veteran and retired autoworker living in a depressed, run-down neighborhood in Detroit, where he is the last white guy on the block.

Surrounded by Asians (of whom Walt isn't too fond), bitter and alone following his wife's death, he spends his days chasing kids off his lawn and working on his most prized possession: a 1972 Gran Torino. One day, a teen named Thao attempts to break into Walt's garage to steal the car as part of his initiation into a street gang. He is caught by Walt. When the leader of the gang tries to intimidate Walt, he and his gang are run off by the well-armed war veteran.

Walt, realizing Thao has no direction in life, takes the boy under his wing and begins to teach him the values of hard work and character. In so doing, Walt realizes he too had become directionless following his wife's death.

"Gran Torino" is a great film and moving metaphor for today's America and its yearning to return to some of those values that have been lost in recent decades. I can't recommend this film highly enough.

"Woodstock: 3 Days of Peace and Music Director's Cut" (40th Anniversary Ultimate Collector's Edition) — 1969 was a year when what was once thought impossible became reality: The Mets won the World Series, Neil Armstrong walked on the moon and a half-million people trampled the alfalfa at Max Yasgur's farm to watch Jimi Hendrix play the National Anthem.

The two-disc edition contains the restored, extended director's cut of the film (some 40 minutes had to be cut in 1970 for the theatrical release), plus a featurette about the history of the festival.

However, if you really want the full treatment, Amazon.com has a limited edition four-disc set that will knock the fringe off your old suede vest: The four-hour Director's Cut, two hours of bonus concert footage, interviews from Martin Scorsese, director Michael Wadleigh and producer Michael Lang. Another disc contains the complete sets from the Grateful Dead, Jefferson Airplane, The Who and others; plus a 60-page Life Magazine reproduction and Woodstock patch. Groovy.

Hero Pizza

We've gathered all of the best ingredients from a hot and saucy hero sandwich — Italian sausage, peppers and cheese — and put them on a kid-friendly pizza.

- 8 ounces Italian turkey sausage, casings removed
- 1 medium red pepper, thinly sliced
- 1 medium yellow pepper, thinly sliced

- Salt
- Pepper
- 1 pound fresh or frozen (thawed) pizza dough
- 3/4 cup jarred marinara sauce

- 1/4 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese

1. Preheat oven to 450 F. Grease 15 1/2-inch by 10 1/2-inch jelly-roll pan with 1 tablespoon olive oil.

2. In 12-inch nonstick skillet, heat remaining 1 teaspoon oil on medium 1 minute. Add sausage; cook 6 to 8 minutes or until cooked through, breaking up sausage with side of spoon. With slotted spoon, transfer sausage to bowl.

3. To drippings in skillet, add peppers and cook, covered, on medium 3 to 4 minutes or until tender, stirring occasionally. Add mushrooms and cook, uncovered, 6 to 8 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Return sausage to skillet; stir in 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper. THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On June 10, 1752, Benjamin Franklin flies a kite during a thunderstorm and collects a charge in a Leyden jar when the kite is struck by lightning, enabling him to demonstrate the electrical nature of lightning. He coined a number of terms used today, including "battery," "conductor" and "electrician."

• On June 14, 1777, during the American Revolution, the Continental Congress adopts a resolution stating that "the flag of the United States be 13 alternate stripes red and white" and that "the Union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new Constellation."

• On June 9, 1934, Donald Duck makes his first film appearance, in "The Wise Little Hen," a short by Walt Disney. Donald would go on to become one of Disney's most beloved characters.

• On June 8, 1945, President Harry Truman issues Executive Order 9568, permitting the release of scientific information from previously top-secret World War II documents. The new classification system was designed to help transition wartime industries to peacetime and create a robust post-war economy.

• On June 12, 1952, Maurice Olley, Chevrolet's chief engineer, completes his chassis, code-named Opel, which would eventually become the chassis for the 1953 Corvette. The Corvette got its name from an extensive search through an English dictionary, which found that a corvette was a small-sized, speedy warship of the Royal Navy.

• On June 11, 1963, President John F. Kennedy issues presidential proclamation 3542, forcing Alabama Gov. George Wallace to comply with federal court orders allowing two black students to register for the summer session at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa.

• On June 13, 1971, The New York Times begins to publish sections of the so-called "Pentagon Papers," a top-secret Department of Defense study of America's involvement in the Vietnam War. The papers indicated that the American government had been lying to its people for years about the Vietnam War, and their release seriously damaged the credibility of America's Cold War foreign policy.

Stone Offerings: Machu Picchu's Terraces of Enlightenment
Photography by Mike Torrey
(Lightpoint Press, $40)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

The ruins of Machu Picchu in Peru are among the most mysterious on earth. Built more than five centuries ago and then abandoned, it was largely unknown except for a handful of farmers who planted crops on its lofty terraces. It is assumed that the structures were built by the Incan emperor Pachacutec in about 1450. A mountain area was chosen, virtually unreachable except from a closely guarded path that terminated at a single doorway.

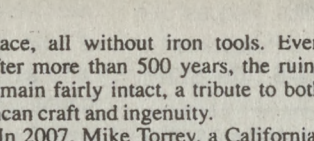
One of the most perplexing questions about Machi Picchu is how the Incas were able to build it in the first place. Ten-ton boulders were lifted up precipitous cliffs, and after being cut and polished, fitted carefully into place, all without iron tools. Even after more than 500 years, the ruins remain fairly intact, a tribute to both Incan craft and ingenuity.

In 2007, Mike Torrey, a California-based architectural photographer, was given the chance of a lifetime when he was allowed to photograph the ruins at Machu Picchu during a solstice. For three days that June, and an additional four days the following December, Torrey captured images that are as rare as they are breathtaking. His remarkable work is featured in a stunning book that is the next best thing to actually visiting the site.

One of the biggest obstacles faced by Torrey was the popularity of the ruins. Nearly 2,000 people visit Machu Picchu each day, and even more during the June and December solstices. The challenge was to photograph the site without people in each frame.

In a brief author's note, Torrey says that what Machu Picchu revealed to him — and what he tried to capture on film — was that the original buildings of the site had peeled back the canopy of a majestic rainforest to frame a series of structures that are an implicit harmony between nature and humans.

Somehow, he managed to do just that. The images are nothing short of magical.



The Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents erected a display at the Institute of Personnel Management Conference in Harrowgate, England. It collapsed.

Salsa Adds Spice to Snapper

If you're looking for a way to change your favorite fish recipe, try adding salsa. The word "salsa" really just means "sauce" in Spanish.

There are many different kinds of salsa. Salsa roja is a red sauce meant to be eaten warm, usually over enchiladas. Salsa verde is a green sauce made with tomatillos. Salsa ranchera means "ranch style" and is typically made of tomatoes and chilies cooked together. There's also salsa cruda or salsa fresca. "Cruda" means "raw," and "fresca" means "fresh." You also can find commercially packaged salsas in a variety of flavors, including mango, peach and pineapple. The levels of heat of the salsas range from mild to fiery-hot.

This simple recipe uses tomatoes, bell peppers and onions to create a salsa fresca topping for snapper. You also can use this delicious sauce on other types of firm-fleshed fish.

Serve this spicy Salsa Snapper over angel-haired pasta, rice or cous cous. It's also delicious served on thick slices of toast that have been rubbed with a clove of garlic and brushed with olive oil.

SALSA SNAPPER

- 2 pounds red snapper, cod or other lean fish fillets
- 2 large tomatoes, chopped (2 cups)
- 1 medium green bell pepper, chopped (1 cup)
- 1 medium onion, chopped (1/2 cup)
- 1/4 cup finely chopped fresh cilantro or parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup Progresso chicken broth (from 32-ounce carton)

1. Cut fish fillets into 8 serving pieces. Spray large nonstick skillet with cooking spray; heat skillet over medium heat.

2. Arrange fish in single layer in skillet. Cook uncovered 4 to 6 minutes, turning once, until fish flakes easily with fork. Remove fish to warm platter; keep warm.

3. Cook remaining ingredients except broth in skillet over medium heat 3 to 5 minutes, stirring frequently, until bell pepper and onion are crisp-tender. Stir in broth; heat through. Spoon tomato mixture over fish. Serves 8.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

Political aspect to a neighborhood shooting

Two weeks ago, a pair of men approached a house on Cummins Way following a neighborhood dispute. They may have had a handgun with them, and they may have shot at a resident of the house. What's certain is that the resident fired back with a shotgun, killing one of the visitors and seriously wounding the other. Several innocent bystanders were apparently wounded by both shotgun and handgun fire.

There is a political aspect to all this. The shooting happened in Broderick, and police say the two alleged assailants had "connections" to the "Broderick Boys" street gang (police did not call them "current members" of the gang). West Sacramento city officials and the Yolo County District Attorney have supported an anti-gang injunction affecting some of the gang's verified members. The injunction curtails gang members' civil rights with a curfew, a restriction preventing them from associating with other gang members, and other measures.

The injunction has been criticized by some residents of the city – particularly Latinos, who feel "targeted" by the injunction, and by others in the north part of the city. But the city's support for the injunction has not wavered, and the D.A.'s office has repeatedly defended it.

Less than 48 hours after the shooting, a deputy district attorney issued a public statement. The statement said the dead man and perhaps his alleged accomplice had fired first, and the man with the shotgun was merely defending himself.

The statement also said that police had "established" that both alleged attackers "had connections to the Broderick Boys criminal street gang and that the residents at (the victim's house) had been threatened with gang violence the day prior to the attack."

The statement also acknowledges that a "dispute" with the victim's residence had "perhaps" played a role.

Does this account overplay the "gang" involvement?

Local police say they have been sorting through a lot of witness accounts. Certainly, one of the players in this tragedy could have made a "threat of gang violence" as the D.A. said. But according to police, a feud between neighbors seems to be the driving force leading to the violence. The police force has not emphasized the "gang" connections of the shooting.

So maybe the D.A.'s office was a little overanxious to play up that angle of this case.

There is another angle, though. The anti-gang injunction is intended to help reduce the opportunities for gang members to commit crimes – whether those crimes are gang-related or not. If the two alleged assailants in this case indeed had gang "connections," it strengthens the argument that restricting the movements of gang members could help protect the rest of the community from gang members' crimes. Whether the shooting on Cummins Way was "gang-related" or not isn't the only issue.

If the crime was committed by people with ties to the Broderick Boys, then the incident helps the argument that restricting the movements of gang members' could improve public safety. If verified gang members are a lot more likely to be violent than the rest of the community, then the injunction could help prevent both "gang-related" violence and other violence – the kind, for instance, that happens when a neighborhood dispute spins out of control.

Letters to the Editor

Avoidable tragedy

On October 31, 2008, my granddaughter, Jessica Fraire and her friend Rosa Zaragoza were hit by a drunk driver on Sacramento Ave. while walking home.

Jessica was on life support and died on November 4. It was a terribly sad day for our family and friends. Jessica was a senior at River City High School. On June 6, she would have graduated with the rest of her 2009 class. We were looking forward to seeing Jessica graduate. She was working so hard to obtain that goal.

Instead it will be a sad day for us. Instead of my granddaughter receiving her diploma, her mom will walk the stage for her. It just doesn't seem right. When Jenifer Moran allegedly decided to drink and drive that night she ruined more lives then she'll know.

We were so proud of Jessica for all her hard work and her commitment to family, friends, and school. It's been seven months since Jessica has been gone, but it feels like this tragedy has happened just yesterday. Even though Jessica is gone I just wanted her to know how proud of her I am.

I want people to remember that what happened to Jessica is completely avoidable. When you are out this summer, please don't drink and drive.

Streetcar: a waste

Do we really need a streetcar project in West Sacramento? What is wrong with the bus line we now have?

I wonder how many children that are going without food, homes, medical care, clothing, etc., could have those things they so very much need if that $69 million were put towards those sorts of things?

I can't help but think that these little kids would rather have a doctor and a full tummy than a ride on a streetcar down West Capitol Avenue. Shame on us.

Not 'bozos'

In last week's letter from me, the word "bozos" was used purposefully to very seriously disparage former president Bush and politicians in Washington who got us into the mess we find ourselves in now, ie., the war, economy, foreclosures, unemployment, etc. It was not meant to refer to our local elected leaders.

Apologies to all who were offended by the inartfully written sentence. Except for the gang injunction, our city council should be commended. But don't we have a right to hear how they think about this gang injunction, for or against, especially when their denouncement of the injunction could possibly put a stop to this insanity? To not say anything means agreement with it. If you agree with it, tell us why you agree with it.

The consequences of [District Attorney] Reisig's gang injunction have been devastating on some families in our community, and it is an illegal and immoral infringement on all of our constitutional rights.
